

BRISTOL'S MOST URGENT NEEDS AS SHOWN BY SURVEY FORM TOPIC FOR PANEL DISCUSSION BY CLUB

Many Suggestions Made As To What Should Be Done Here To Improve Community — Speakers Stress What They Think Are Most Important

Yesterday was "Citizenship Day" for The Travel Club.

A survey of business, professional, industrial and recreational groups of Bristol borough, which took place during the past few weeks, resulted in discussion in the club home regarding the most urgent needs for this community in 1950. The survey was conducted by personal interviews and letters on the part of members of the citizenship committee of The Travel Club of which Mrs. Clyde S. Betts, Sr., is chairman.

Among the suggestions which came in from persons in business and professional life, Travel Club members, and other residents of the borough, were the following listed as "urgent needs" for Bristol:

Intense face-lifting and cleaning-up in physical appearance; more playgrounds for children throughout the town; reduction in number of tap rooms; security (jobs for all bread-winners); better housing; bigger and better-equipped hospital; dental clinic; Community Chest; more adequate library; room for temporary confinement of mental patients; new high school and improved facilities in other schools; council of social agencies; a great spiritual awakening; re-assessment and placement on tax lists of every eligible person, etc.

Bristol's new burgess, I. Johnston Hetherington, Sr., was an outstanding participant in the program.

Six club members formed the panel, informing of their interviews or replies to letters as they sought answers from leaders of fraternal, religious, civic and other groups to three questions—"What is the most urgent need in the community of Bristol in 1950?" "What does your organization do to meet these needs?" and "What can we as citizens do to meet these needs?" Mrs. Betts, at the outset, informed that the survey was made "among persons most aware of our needs." She presented 15 suggestions as to Bristol's needs as submitted by Clyde J. Waterman, president of Bristol Chamber of Commerce, then invited her co-members on the panel to present their findings and make suggestions.

The needs as outlined by Mr. Waterman were as follows, each being followed by information on "what is being done about it":

1. An intense face lifting and cleaning-up in physical appearance; 2. beautification to the western entrance to the borough; 3. mosquito and insect control in the marsh and dump areas; 4. improvement to the public pier and grounds adjoining to the south; 5. development of the public park and playground areas; 6. more playgrounds for children throughout the town; 7. an occupant for the former Grundy mill; 8. more housing in the Bristol area; 9. an expanded annual youth week program; 10. municipal hall or auditorium; 11. beautification of the Silver Lake area; 12. traffic signal or traffic light at Green Lane and the highway; 13. practicing more efficiently our slogan "Build Bristol—Buy Bristol"; 14. improvement to the canal as a historical and aesthetic asset; 15. traffic light for new U. S. Route 13 and the PRR underpass at the Bristol cemetery.

After each panel participant took up her allotted section, guests were invited to participate as his or her field of work or knowledge was considered. Mrs. Richard T. Myers had investigated needs concerning the schools and Parent-Teacher Association; Mrs. Anthony Burton, youth work; Mrs. Harry T. Neher, industry and labor; Mrs. Frank S. Welk, ministerium and other religious organizations; Mrs. Lester Michael, better housing.

After result of the surveys had been made known, and discussed briefly by panel members, with occasional and brief participation by those in the audience, the following guests in some cases made answer to proposals, told of ground-work being laid in some instances to meet some suggested needs, or further enlightened by telling of experiences met or cooperation advanced on the part of the populace: Mrs. John Johnson, president of Bristol Parent - Teacher Association; John Burriss, guidance counselor, Bristol high school; Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of Bristol public schools; the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans, pastor of Bristol Presbyterian Church, and an official of the Bristol Y. M. C. A.

After telling of an interview with officials of the local unemployment office, Mrs. Neher stated that in the opinion of several business men "the basic need of any community is security. We, as citizens or residents, may want many things, but unless we have jobs for all who are

BRISTOL LEADS IN MARRIAGE LICENSES

Past Year, However, Showed A Drop In County In Number Issued

JUNE NOT AS POPULAR

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 7 — There was a decrease in the number of applications for marriage licenses in Bucks county in the year just ended. The number issued was 1283 compared to 1485 for 1948. In June, 1948, there were 197 licenses issued.

As far as high quota honors in the county were concerned, Bristol topped the list with 266 candidates, Quakertown running second with 156, Doylestown third with her 113, Perkasie snared fourth place with 61 applicants, Langhorne fifth with 56 and Sellersville had 51.

A breakdown of all the months for the past year show that cupid delivered 64 of the smitten to the local license bureau in January, 88 in February and 76 in March. One hundred put in application during April, 124 in May and the year's high of 174 applied for double harness in June. Undaunted by Summer's stifling heat, 100 signed the docket in July and 144 in August. In September the license total dropped to 132, with 106 during October, 92 in November and 81 in December.

Philadelphians continued to make a marrying mecca of the County Seat, with 589 orange blossom candidates, and statistics also showed that if you live in Billy Penn's City you'd have almost a two-to-one chance of marrying the boy next door, while nearly three-quarters of Doylestown's brides and grooms found mates outside the town proper. Thirty of the 113 Doylestown applicants chose marital partners from within its borders.

BUILDING HERE SHOWED A JUMP DURING LAST YEAR

Permits Were Issued For An Estimated Total of $595,-515 of Construction

ALL KINDS INCLUDED

Numerous Permits Issued But Construction Has Not As Yet Been Started

Building permits totalling $595,515 were issued by Bristol borough during 1949. This total included building and construction of various kinds, such as factory buildings, garages and display rooms, banking house, overpass, residences, garages, porches, and alterations and additions of minor character. It also included the altering of private residences into apartment houses.

All of the construction for which permits were issued has not been completed, and in a number of instances has not even been started. Some who contemplated building applied for permits, anticipating the passing of a zoning law in Bristol which would more or less affect the plans they had in mind.

Sixth ward heads the list in total listed for new construction, the amount being $194,450.

The new construction according to wards is: 1st, $214,550; 2nd, $7,500; 3rd, $1,100; 4th, $36,000; 5th, $33,500; 6th, $194,450.

Alterations total as follows in the various wards: 1st, $24,600; 2nd, $20,200; 3rd, $2,500; 4th, $5,740; 5th, $21,150; 6th, $61,925.

Problem Being Studied by Greater Phila.-S. Jersey Council, Bucks County Division—Problem is considered From All Angles at Meeting in Bensalem Township—Wallace Murfit, Bucks County Chairman, Names Committee to Study the Situation.

Grave concern is being felt as to the method for handling the huge volume of traffic which it is estimated will flow into Bucks County from the eastern termination of the Pennsylvania Turnpike now in course of construction. The problem is being studied by the Greater Philadelphia-South Jersey Council, Bucks County Division. The subject was taken up in detail last evening at a meeting called by the Bucks County Division at Becker Farms Inn, Bensalem Township.

Wallace Murfit, Newtown, chairman of Bucks County Division, was the presiding officer. He called upon General Brenton G. Wallace, chairman of the Greater Philadelphia-South Jersey Council, as the first speaker. General Wallace's address was brief. He outlined the five points of interest to the council as a whole, namely: 1, Highways (mentioning U. S. population in 1940 was 132 million, with 152 million estimated for this census, and tremendous increase in number of automobiles in next 10 years with anticipated increase of 25 million population); 2, sewage disposal; 3, airports; 4, development of ports (Delaware River basin, Trenton, N. J., to Chester); 5, transportation (bus and rail). In this connection General Wallace listed highways as one of the most important points of consideration for the council.

Wallace opened the evening's discussion, pointing out that "By December the hope is to have completed the new Penna. Turnpike, and this will pour thousands of automobiles off at King of Prussia, near Norristown. The city of Philadelphia has planned the Schuylkill express way at a cost of $25,000,000 to carry city traffic into Philadelphia."

Clement C. Conole, executive director of Phila. Chamber of Commerce, informed the group that "Industry in this particular area is not expanding. In the first 11 months of 1949 new industries employing 900 in the greater Phila. area were started, but at the same time the area lost 40 industries with employment for 3,000." He advised that the Phila. Chamber of Commerce has set up a fund of $50,000 and an additional $100,000 has been promised by business men to be aimed directly at stimulating attraction of industry into the area. He added there is active prospect list of 2600 firms.

Bucks County's concern in the matter of highway traffic which will pour into Bucks County was then given undivided attention. Dr. Frank M. Majewski, of Rohm & Haas Co., spoke regarding pollution abatement laws which are designed for betterment of all concerned. He informed that industry cannot go on promiscuously wasting water. "The water table at Bristol is dropping 10 feet per year. We can't continue to denude the landscape of forests and permit water to go into the salt areas so rapidly. We will have to seek settlement of the plight on streams and rivers. The only way is to clean them up."

Victor L. Sanderson, Rushland, chairman of Bucks County highway committee under Mr. Murfit's leadership, told the group that when the vehicles in question leave the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Norristown, those coming toward Bucks County will average 4,122 passenger cars and 960 trucks in an 18 hour day. This means four passenger cars a minute, he advised. These figures were quoted from a survey of the Greater Philadelphia-South Jersey Council staff, they being based on present travel on completed sections of the turnpike. Mr. Sanderson advised that Norristown has had the state officials by-pass Norristown by building a new Route 202 north of that city. "If all this traffic, bound for northern New Jersey, New York and New England is poured into Bucks County how will it be handled?" was the important question posed.

The main problem before the group appeared as a solution to handling this great volume of traffic, particularly in the towns through which it will flow. Some consideration was given to the proposed Bristol-Quakertown highway, part of which has been completed, but this would be of aid mainly to traffic bound for the northern part of Bucks County, alleviating congestion only to a minor degree.

Mr. Murfit named a committee of several men, including Sanderson and Bucks County Commissioner Simon K. Moyer, to study the situation and learn how present plans of the Pennsylvania Highway Committee are designed to compensate for conditions which will arise.

SMALLER AUTOMOBILES!

New car season is always a fascinating time. Regardless of whether there is enough money in the bank account to acquire one of the gleaming beauties — with redesigned grille — from the Detroit assembly lines, new cars are fun to read about. Advance news on the new models now going on public display is as exciting as usual, but in one case, at least,
there may be the inkling of a significant trend.

Two model lines of one make car are to be five inches shorter over-all than the same models produced last year. The promotional ballyhoo says this will make for greater ease in parking. That's a fine sales angle, to be sure, but the ad copy writers have overlooked something bigger. In a crowded city — what city isn't these days — 1,000 of these new shorter cars would take up 400 lineal feet less curb space than the same number of 1949 models.

National traffic authorities have predicted that almost every city of more than 100,000 population will be in a mess 10 years hence if drastic redesigning of traffic patterns isn't carried out.
But if the solution of traffic and parking problems is to be found in smaller automobiles, public thinking regarding what is and what isn't desirable in the car would need to be reversed.

The abbreviated, tinny European type car has never found favor in the United States. Perhaps people don't feel as safe in them, surrounded in traffic by trucks that resemble freight cars,
as they do in larger automobiles.

SAFETY IN MANNERS

Emily Post has written "the bluebooklet of traffic etiquette."
It is called "Motor Manners" and has been published by National Highway Users Conference Inc.
as a public service.

It might be concluded the fact that Mrs. Post long has been recognized as the most eminent authority on social niceties does not necessarily make her such an authority on traffic etiquette. But the fundamentals of good manners
are the same, whether at the table, in the drawingroom or on the streets and highways. And whether women and men are to be considered ladies and gentlemen depends upon how they act.

There is nothing new or unusual in the "code of courtesy" for motorists and pedestrians in Mrs. Post's "Motor Manners."
Her ideas of traffic behavior for
"all who would be well-mannered drivers and pedestrians" can be summed up in four words — courteous consideration for others.

The person who remembers and heeds Mrs. Post's advice that "courtesy in an automobile is always one's best assurance of safety" will conscientiously abide by traffic regulations and will not be "an accident going somewhere to happen."

Today's Quiet Moment

By Philip Henry
Pastor
Bensalem Presbyterian Church

Felix said, "Go thy way for this time; and when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee." (Acts 24:25)

Paul was reasoning with Felix to become a Christian. Felix seemed to be convinced of its truth, but was not ready to take the step of accepting Christ as his personal Savior. He wanted to put it off until tomorrow.

Remember the rich man that wanted to pull down his barns, and build greater ones to keep his goods. But God said, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee." Countless thousands have been lost saying tomorrow when they should have said today.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS 1ST GAME IN THE L.R. BUCKS GROUP

TRENTON, Jan. 7.—The Bristol High School Varsity football team won its first game in the Lower Bucks group, defeating the Pennsbury High School team, 24-22, in a thrilling game which was deadlocked four times before the Junior Warriors annexed the triumph.

Raul Stevens' field goal on a pass from "Walt" Holden gave Coach McClister's team the deciding points. "Jim" Gallagher had deadlocked the score by sinking a foul after Bristol had fallen behind, 22-21.

During the first half play, Pennsbury had the lead. Bristol failed to score in the first session while the Junior Falcons had five points. Coach "Cy" Bachman's team added five more points in the second half but Bristol came through with eight points to make the half-time count, 10-8.

Shortly after the second half got under way, the playing began to open up and "Walt" Holden knotted the count at 12-12 with a field goal. But Don Grimes and Shepard made four points to put Pennsbury in the lead, 18-12. But at the close of the third period, Stevens and Holden racked up goals to even the count at 16-16.

Grimes again put Pennsbury in the front with a two-pointer but "Charlie" Brady's long shot tied the count at 18-18. When Holden scored from underneath the net, Bristol went into the lead for the first time, 20-18. Stevens' foul made it 21-18 but Charles Pagels and Grimes followed with double-deckers for Pennsbury to wrest the lead from Bristol, 22-21. The tying and winning points were then garnered by Gallagher and Stevens.

Holden and Brady led Bristol in scoring with 8 and 6 points, while Grimes had seven points for Pennsbury.

Bristol Leads In Marriage Licenses

plea for connubial bliss of 328 of those signing the Bucks docket, 173 men trading single status for that of benedict, and 155 women making a second try. In addition 68 men and 65 women, who had lost mates to death complimented their late partners by again choosing the marital state.

In the underage group, 106 males and 385 women required parental consent, the majority of this younger group, however, being almost of legal age.

The past May also saw a run on Bucks licenses for a number of well-known stage celebrities. Theodore Newton, actor, took Emily Abel Balzer, actress, as bride; George S. Kaufman, distinguished playwright and director, married Leueen McGrath, English actress, and Joan Mortimer, actress, non-superstitiously chose the 13th of that month to become Mrs. Hugh Dryfoos.

Twenty-two of the states, the Virgin Islands and Canada were represented by a monthly average of 25 out-of-staters applicants. New Jersey provided the greatest number, sending 219 across the border, 39 came from New York, 8 from Washington, D. C., five each from Massachusetts and Virginia, four apiece from Indiana, Ohio, California and Delaware. Two each were from Tennessee, Maryland, West Virginia, and the Virgin Islands, and one apiece from New Mexico, Colorado, Maine, Kansas, Mississippi, Connecticut, Illinois, Kentucky, Iowa and Canada.

The Profymen are unbeaten, having scored triumphs over Rohm and Haas and Franklin. They need this triumph to tie the Tullytown contingent for first place.

Rohm and Haas is still seeking its first triumph of the season. The chemical mixers, with Jack Stein at the helm, seem to be running into all sorts of difficulty and just can't break into the win column.

Franklin has dropped two of its three games and appeared rather weak against Tullytown on Wednesday night but a shake-up is due in the line-up of the Franklin club and this may occur tomorrow night.

Bristol's Most Urgent Needs, Shown By Survey, Topic of Discussion By Club

rollment in grade one in 1953 was mentioned, "and from then on we will have it for 12 years." Supt. Snyder listed the cost of a complete, modern high school plant at three-quarters to a million dollars. He further advised "Personally I believe it could be financed with no undue burden."

The "dire needs" of Bristol were given by John Burris, guidance counselor, as: 1. A co-ordinating council of social agencies; 2. guidance services on the adult level. He further commented: "The adult is often just as much in need as the child; and many normal people are involved in problems." Mr. Burris cited problems of young folks from his wide experience, reminding that "adults have the same type problems, but no social agency locally to go to for aid and support."

The P. T. A. president, Mrs. Johnson, told of hopes of that organization to establish a dental clinic here. One of her comments was: "The P. T. A. believes citizenship of any type begins in the family. Such citizenship must be extended to embrace the town, the state, nation and eventually the entire world." The objectives and purposes of the P. T. A. were outlined by the guest.

The Rev. Mr. Yeomans, who is also chairman of Youth Week program in Bristol, said: "I feel we have accomplished a great deal in the youth program in the past three years, and we hope to broaden the program this year to cover possibly six days instead of three." He spoke of the YMCA and its facilities, also of the fact it "has made strides beyond its financial capacity." The clergyman informed that an attempt is being made at the YMCA on Mansion street to set up a fine program despite limited facilities. "We need the 'Y' and we need the Youth Week program."

Need of more leadership for youth in general in the community was mentioned by several; and favorable comment was made of the part the Bristol Blood Donors have played in making Silver Lake a safe place for bathers.

Burgess Hetherington, who this week took the oath of office and entered upon his new duties as Bristol's "first citizen," stated when introduced by Mrs. Betts that he would be guided in his remarks by the Chamber of Commerce's suggestions. He took the points in this report one by one, telling of advancement along some lines, and of plans to bring to fruition other hoped-for projects. After reminding of the time of the Boston Tea Party when people were angered because of "taxation without representation," the burgess remarked: "Today we want representation without taxation." He mentioned the large number in the borough who, he said, do not pay taxes, stating that in the first ward alone names of such individuals filled six large pages. "But I promise they will be on the tax list after we make another check."

Commenting on places in the east and south he has visited, Burgess Hetherington stated: "But I still like Bristol." "I have been called a radical. I am insofar as Bristol and its welfare are concerned. Bristol's welfare rests with you and me. Many of our evils are the result of our own lack of interest in the past. Many of us never think of politics until election day rolls around and someone knocks on our door. Many of you have never been inside the borough council chambers. If you support the councilmen, you'll get more from them. They like a 'cheering section.'" The official informed that the borough wound up 1949 well enough in the "black" to support Bristol for the entire month of January. He added that "there are many things we would like to do, but can't because of lack of money."

He promised as one of his first tasks that of trying to get every eligible in Bristol on the tax rolls. "That will help our schools and borough. Back of this is education—not only of the children but of the adults. I believe that with continued effort on the part of teachers and elected representatives in Bristol, and added support of such groups as this, we will achieve almost the impossible."

One of the several suggestions taken up at length by the speaker was "attract new industries." In connection with this he mentioned the plan for "open house" at the Crescent Corp. plant (former Grundy mill) scheduled for Tuesday next, with the hope of attracting prospective tenants. He stated: "The present generation has fallen heir in Bristol to services that are very much run-down and almost worn out. Our water supply is not sufficient for another big industry. The water in the borough wells is dropping eight to 12 feet. Another thing—there is no available building space in the borough limits for industry. If industries build in Bristol, we cannot afford to extend our facilities into the township without the township bearing its share of capital outlay for services."

In 1943 the borough was first told it had to improve its sewage disposal plant. It was "pigeon-holed." But we were recently able to get temporary plans drawn up and submitted to Harrisburg. If the work was cared for when it was first proposed, it would have cost one-half as much as it now will. Regarding our facilities, we can care for more small industries, but large ones—No!"

Regarding the question of re-assessment locally, Mr. Hetherington stated: "If you were to make a study of the tax situation in Bristol you would be very much alarmed. The tax rate is very low in the borough. It is hard to find a place to equal it. What couldn't we do if we had a re-evaluation? I have tried to get your assessors together." He then mentioned the number of apartments and business places which "do not appear on the tax lists." Further comment was "I returned to Bristol to learn that my parents, dead several years, were still on the tax lists. There is a real need for a re-assessment. How it will be approached or met I don't know."

One thought on the part of the guest was that some housing areas here "need abandoning," they being termed "immoral and fire-traps." He expressed the opinion that relations between the community and schools is much better than ever. He hopes for improvement in the paving of certain streets, and parking and garage facilities. Burgess Hetherington said to the club women: "Clean-up is an everyday proposition, I feel. I have suggested that borough employees with a truck spend one day a week in each ward." He scored residents who fail to cooperate when they improperly wrap or pack rubbish. Among the duties which he stated devolve upon him, the supervision of Bristol police was mentioned by the burgess.

The session opened with a brief period for business in charge of president Mrs. Elwood Goslin. Minutes were presented by Mrs. Michael A. Harriety.
